Hey guys.

To kick start the year, the Homer L. Dodge Dept. of Physics & Astronomy's chapter of the Society of Physics Students (SPS) will have its first official activity, the SPS Welcome BBQ, this Friday, September 8, from 5.00 until 8.00 on the South Oval, right outside Nielsen. We will be grilling some food, playing some frisbee and some volleyball, and welcoming some new (and returning) faces to the department in an exciting way.

We really need you (the undergraduates) to be there for this event. I know some of you might not be involved with SPS - at least you haven't been in the past - but this is a good opportunity for you, as well.

Meeting new freshmen, getting involved with the department, and mingling with profs and grad students cannot, in any way, be a bad thing. We'd love to have you out. Newcomers to the department will have a much easier time being convinced that physics is a worthwhile endeavor if we show them that we're excited about it and their participation.

At the picnic, you'll be able to find out about some future ideas and activities in the works for SPS for the current school year.

Bring your family. Bring your friends. Let's show them how much we enjoy physics and astronomy at OU.

Thanks, guys. See you Friday. Please e-mail me or Matt Johnson with any questions you might have.

Best,
Devin Harper
SPS President
